Scene One

Pirate: Arrrrrrrrrrr!!!

Andy: Oh, you're an R enthusiast like me CLICK

P [looking confused]: Arrrrrrrrrrr

A: Yes, R, the open source statistical computing language ... it's great ... CLICK

P: What be ye talking about ye funny little man? ... Let me show ye. CLICK

[pirate academy video] CLICK

A: Right, so your pirate trainees are using AI to do their work for them?

P: That be correct. The other day I set this task ... Grim-Faced Jakey need ye to investigate the effects of this behaviour on pirate minds - our booty haul is poorer than Penny Farthington with all this talk of health and safety. If ye refuse, me piranhas will feast on yer entrails.

A: Right, so GFJ is concerned that use of AI is preventing his pirate trainees from learning essential pirate skill. Our mission then is to explore the effects of using AI on cognition.

END

Scene 2

A: The data seem to suggest that by using AI your pirates are reducing their ability to think critically about the world. This seems to be driven by offloading cognitive tasks onto technology. In short, they're not exercising their brains. CLICK

P: Are you telling me that using AI is turning my pirates into a bunch of mindless clones, incapable of critical or individual thought, who will lack the ability to question the information they receive?

A: Well, I guess ... sort of .... although the study measures were fairly awful ... CLICK

P: arrrrr, this be excellent news to grim-faced Jakey, because I be the sort of pirate captain who values a crew who follow my orders without question ... How can I use it to weaken the minds of my pirates even more?

A: Well, I guess I can try to find out ...

....

....

.....

END

Scene 3

A: The data seem to suggest that perhaps you can increase cheating with AI by changing the subjective norms of your trainees. CLICK

P: Be ye suggesting we make it acceptable rather than the territory of miscreants and ner-do-wells? Ye be telling Grim-Faced Jakey to stop using his cat-o-nine-tails on the scallywags that be using it?

A: Maybe?

P: You be most helpful sir, your reward be not seeing your own entrails upon the floor. Arrrrrrrr

#teaching/lectures